

Have your say. Make a film.

If you're passionate about the world around you, pick up a camera and have your say. You could see your work up on the big screen at The Co-operative Film Festival.

Be co-operative, be creative. Tackle an issue that concerns you such as fairtrade, climate change or your community. Challenge stereotypes, make us gasp or laugh. Be experimental or innovative. Change your world.

The Co-operative Film Festival is a celebration not a competition. Entries must be under six minutes long. Film makers must be aged 19 years old or under. Entries are accepted on DVD only.

Entry deadline is 28 May 2010.

The Festival takes place at the National Media Museum in Bradford 7-8 October 2010.
